EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

NUMBERS GAME: The other day I was pleasantly surprised by receiving a mail on my mobile phone from the Vice-Chairman and MD of my service provider.

The mail assured me that the provider had strengthened safeguards against online frauds by marking spam calls and SMSes with clear messages, or by blocking suspicious links across apps and platforms in real time.

"Since the launch of our programme these measures have already protected 4.6 cr customers… from falling prey to scams and resulted in fraud having fallen by 68.7%," the message continued.

The mail ended with a personal message, "I'd love to hear your thoughts and how we can make our service even better," ending with a sign-off wishing me "Warm regards."

I was very impressed. Being the Vice-Chairman, not to mention also the MD, of a major mobile network must be a full-time job, having to keep a sharp eye out to ensure that the competition doesn't pinch your market share through promos and other sneaky methods.

For the Vice-Chairman and MD to have taken the time to Warmly regard me enough to mail me made me feel like an AVIP, Almost Very Important Person.

But one thing puzzled me. How, despite all the assured safeguards mentioned, did so many spammers and fraudsters get my number and the numbers of 4.6cr other customers in the first place? It's like the riddle of the Sphinx.

Statisticians say that if X number of monkeys were given X number of typewriters, in X period of time, they'd reproduce the entire works of Shakespeare.

Using a similar mathematical model, could an X number of spammers/ fraudsters, using X number of phones over an X period of time be able to collate all those 4.6cr mobile numbers? Or could it be that there's some other form of monkey business going on here?

The next time you get a spam or fraud call, ask yourself if it is thanks to your service provider that your number is literally up — up for sale?

Man owns 1,638 credit cards!

New Delhi: Manish Dhameja, who holds 1,638 valid credit cards, had earned a Guinness World Record on Apr. 30, 2021.

These cards aren't just for collection. He uses them to maximise reward points, cashback, travel benefits, and hotel privileges without incurring any debt. He has no debt and manages these cards with complete zero debt.

His story demonstrates that even tools meant for spending can become instruments of smart earning. Manish's journey shows that when technology and finance are planned wisely, even the most ordinary things can become extraordinary.

Frog breaks its bones, turns them into claws

Bangui: The African Hairy Frog has a peculiar self-destructive ability that allows it to snap its toe bones when threatened to create bone claws that pierce its skin just like Marvel's Wolverine.

The Hairy Frog or the Wolverine Frog, is one of nature's strangest creatures. The males grow thin, hair-like skin threads on the sides of their bodies and their hind legs, a unique ability that scientists believe helps the amphibians absorb more oxygen. These "hairs" contain arteries and are thought to increase the surface area for the purpose of absorbing oxygen when the male guards the eggs in the water. But this is not the weirdest thing about hairy frogs. They also have an unusual self-defence mechanism that allows them to snap their toe bones and turn them into sharp claws that pierce their skin.

A 2008 paper, citing earlier reports, noted that the frog's claws can inflict "deep, bleeding wounds visible to the bone" on predators and human captors.

Greater Mysuru proposal shelved

Government cites financial constraints, postpones plan to next financial year

Mysuru, Oct. 15 (RK&BCT)- The long-pending and much-anticipated proposal to form the 'Greater Mysuru City Corporation' (Bruhat Mysuru Mahanagara Palike) by merging the surrounding City Municipal Councils and Town Panchayats with the Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) has hit a roadblock, with the State Government officially withdrawing the plan.

The move comes as a setback to many Mysureans who had envisioned their rapidly growing cultural city being elevated to Grade-1 municipal status, which would have brought greater administrative and developmental advantages to the region.

The proposal sought to bring together five City and Town Municipal Councils and seven Gram Panchayats — comprising a total of 20 villages — under a unified Urban Body.

Financial constraints

However, citing financial constraints, the State Finance Department advised deferring the project to the next fiscal year.

Acting on this recommendation, Prabhuling Kavalikatti, Director of the Directorate of Municipal Administration, issued an order on Sept. 16, formally withdrawing the proposal and postponing it to the next financial year.

The idea of creating a Greater Mysuru was first mooted in 2008 and gained traction over the years amid increasing public demand and political support. With Mysuru's rapid horizontal growth and the expansion of residential areas beyond the Outer Ring Road (ORR), the concept found renewed momentum among elected representatives.

KSRTC Bus Stand at Bannimantap

Old depots demolished to make way for new terminal

Mysuru, Oct. 15 (BLU&DM)- The construction of the new and modern KSRTC Sub-Urban Bus Stand at the Bannimantap Depot premises has gained significant momentum, with first-phase works progressing in full swing.

The project aims to ease congestion at the existing KSRTC Sub-Urban Bus Stand located on the busy Bengaluru-Nilgiri (B.N.) Road in the heart of the city.

Chief Minister Siddaramaiah had virtually laid the foundation stone for the new facility during a public rally held at the Maharaja's College Grounds on Sept. 9 this year, where he also launched several other developmental projects for Mysuru.

The new bus stand is coming up on 14 acres within the Bannimantap KSRTC Depot premises at an estimated cost of Rs. 126 crore. The Depot has 61 acres of land.

Pension tension for 1,900 UoM retirees

Rs. 150 crore needed annually, but State Govt. gives just Rs. 50 crore

Mysuru, Oct. 15 (BLU&BS)- Over a century-old University of Mysore (UoM) now faces uncertainty in paying its pensioners from next month onwards.

The issue was discussed at UoM Academic Council meeting held at Crawford Hall this morning. The meeting, chaired by Vice-Chancellor Prof. N.K. Lokanath, was attended by MLC K. Vivekananda, Finance Officer Rekha and Council members.

Prof. Lokanath, while reiterating the challenges faced by the University in meeting its pension obligations, expressed concern over the difficulties that may arise if the Government fails to allocate adequate funds from next month.

"The Varsity has a total of 1,900 pensioners, including teaching and non-teaching staff, requiring about Rs. 150 crore per annum solely for pensions. The monthly requirement is roughly Rs. 10.5 crore, while the Government has so far allocated only Rs. 50 crore. The shortfall has been managed through the UoM's internal resources up to this month, but uncertainty looms over pension payments from next month," he said.

Man gets life term for killing ex-wife in 2017

Mysuru, Oct. 15 (BCT)- The Second Additional District and Sessions Court in Mysuru has sentenced a man to life imprisonment for the brutal murder of his former wife eight years ago.

The convict, Karthik, son of late Thandavamurthy from Tarikere taluk in Chikkamagalur district, was found guilty of killing his ex-wife Sunitha at her residence in Vidyaranyapuram, Mysuru, in June 2017.

Karthik's sister, a Railway employee, was residing in the Railway Quarters at Mysuru, where Sunitha had also settled with her young son after separating from Karthik. Sunitha's father, also a Railway employee, lived nearby and after her mother's demise, she had chosen to stay with her father and brother for emotional and practical support.

The crime

Karthik and Sunitha had fallen in love and married after a period of courtship and the couple had a son. However, Karthik allegedly began harbouring unfounded suspicions about his wife's fidelity and subjected her to constant harassment. Unable to endure the abuse, Sunitha sought a divorce and moved to Mysuru with her son.

On June 13, 2017, Karthik came to Mysuru under the pretext of visiting his child. That morning, as Sunitha was waiting to put her seven-year-old son on the school bus, Karthik approached her, gave the boy a chocolate and affectionately greeted him.

Once the boy boarded the bus, Sunitha returned home and began to close the door when Karthik followed her inside.

Pretending he only wanted to see his son and requesting a glass of water, Karthik waited until Sunitha turned toward the kitchen. He then locked the door and using a dagger he had brought with him, slit her throat and stabbed her multiple times, killing her on the spot.

After committing the murder, Karthik destroyed his mobile phone SIM card and threw it into the bushes near the Railway shed before fleeing.

Vidyaranyapuram Police registered a case and arrested Karthik based on evidence and witness statements. The probe, led by Investigation Officer Omkarappa, culminated in a detailed charge-sheet submitted to the Court.

After a prolonged trial, the Court, presided over by Judge Mallanagowda, pronounced Karthik guilty and on Monday (Oct. 13) sentenced him to life imprisonment and a fine of Rs. 1 lakh. The judgment came exactly eight years and four months after the crime.

Public Prosecutor B.M. Veena argued the case on behalf of the State.

VOICE OF THE READER

Kudos to Police for Anti-Rowdy Squad

Sir,

Two shocking murders have rocked Mysuru in recent months. In May, a rowdy-sheeter named Karthik was brutally killed. Now, in October 2025, his associate Venkatesh, known as 'Gilki Venkatesh,' has met the same fate — murdered in broad daylight, in full view of tourists and residents alike.

Such incidents expose a grave lapse in intelligence and policing. When killings occur so brazenly, it instils fear among citizens and tarnishes Mysuru's image as a safe and peaceful city.

To curb this rising lawlessness, it is commendable that the Police Department has reactivated the dedicated Anti-Rowdy Squad and initiated stringent action against criminal elements. Public safety must remain the foremost priority.

Equally alarming is the disturbing trend of individuals glorifying these rowdies on social media, portraying them as local heroes.

This not only fuels criminal behaviour but also misguides the youths. Firm measures must be taken to clamp down on such online glorification of crime and criminals.

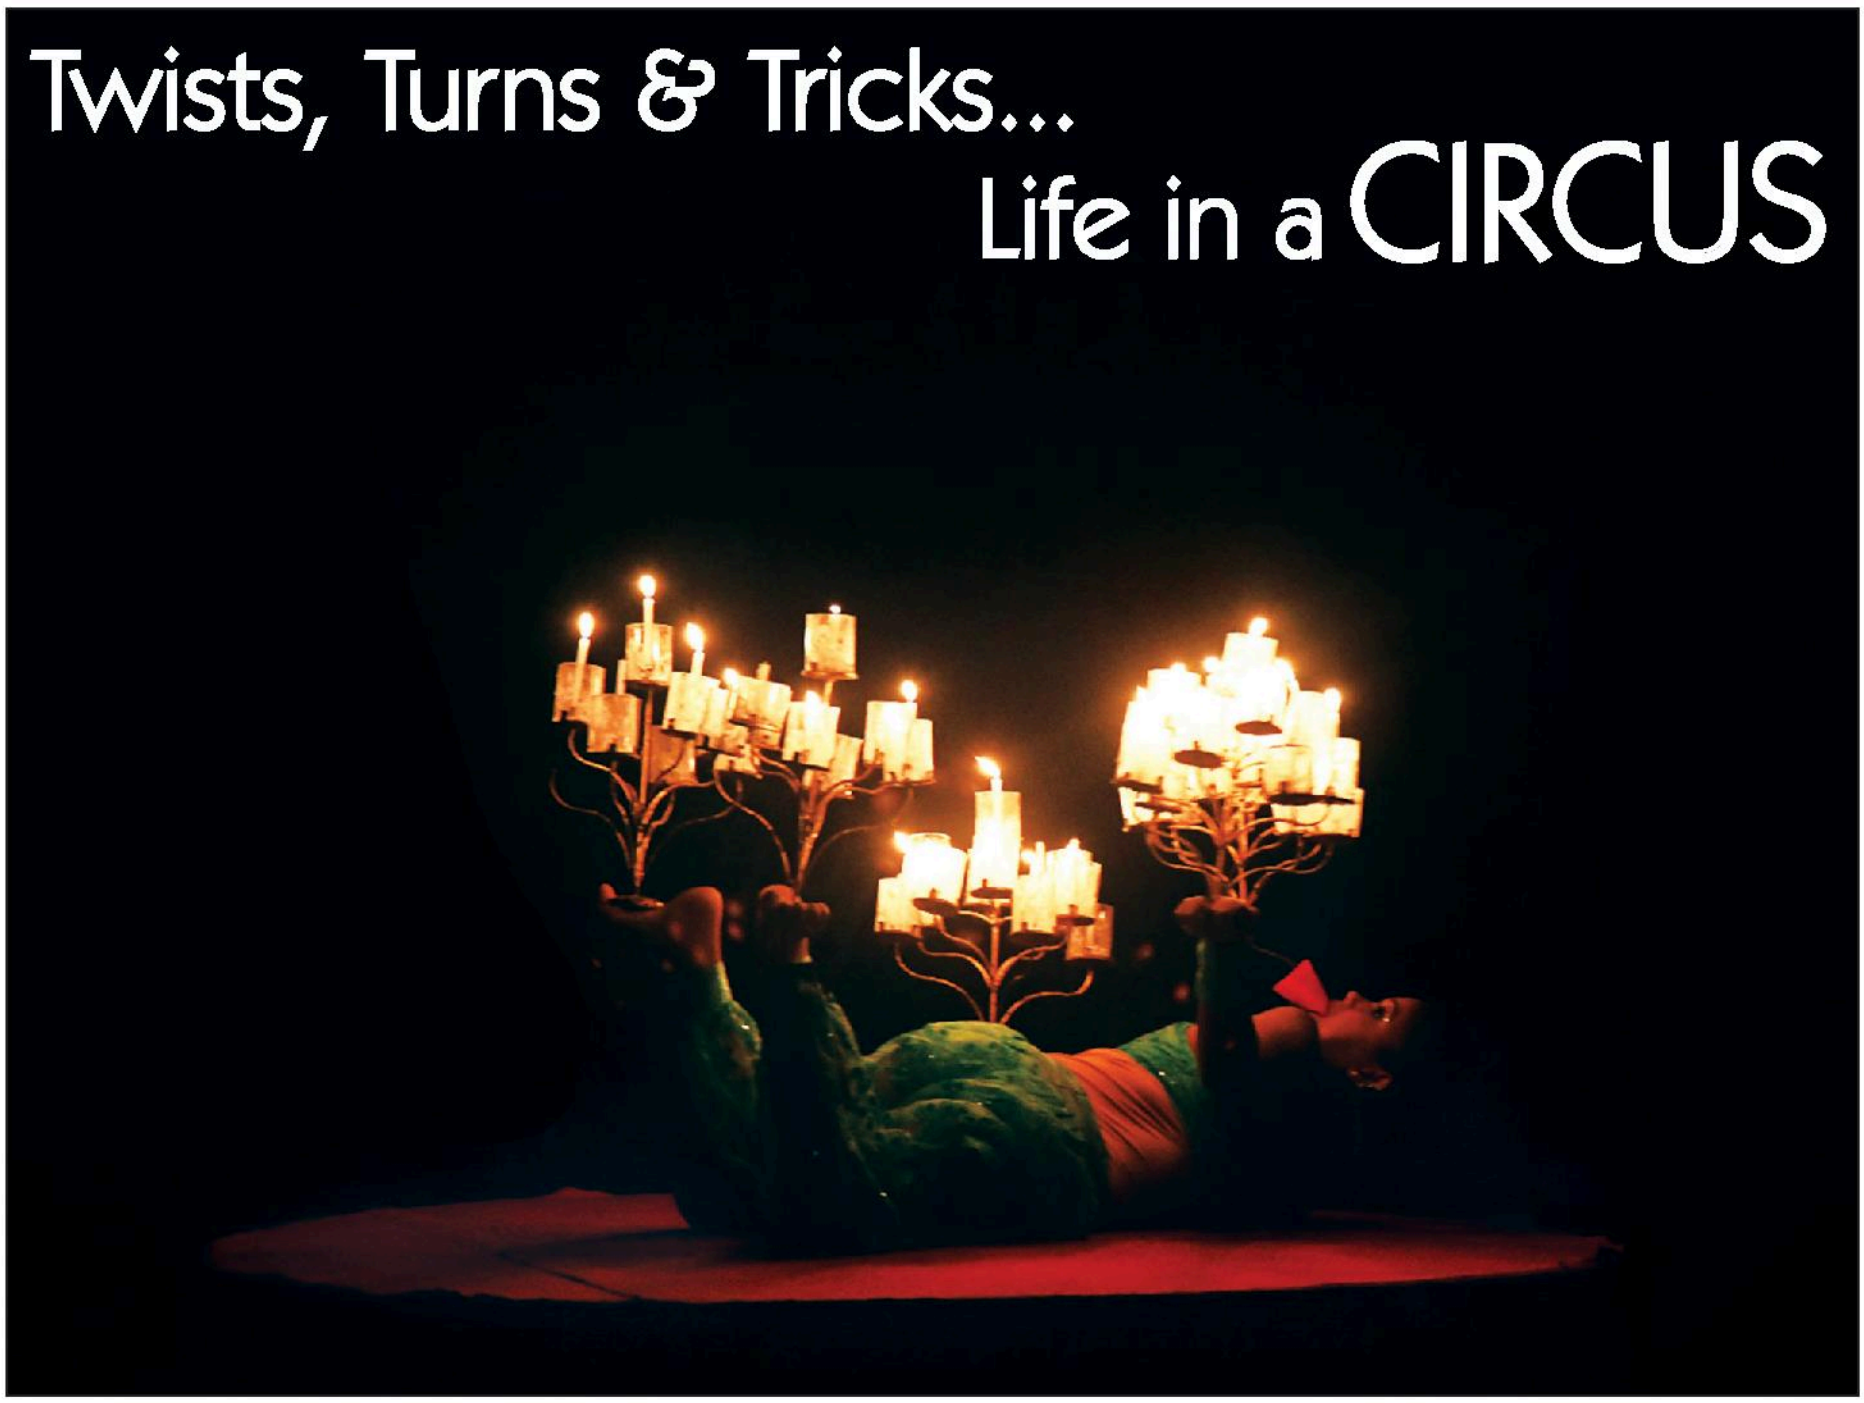
Twists, Turns & Tricks... Life in a CIRCUS



The audience is treated to a breathtaking spectacle of agility and grace. A troupe of skilled performers glide through the air like birds, executing aerial stunts on white silk curtains suspended from the ceiling, showcasing a remarkable harmony of strength and poise.

The excitement builds as acrobats perform daring feats on vertical poles, drawing gasps and applause from the crowd. In a vibrant flourish, a group of women performers takes the stage, dazzling spectators with synchronised routines that blend dance and acrobatics into a riot of colour and motion.

Gemini Circus & Mysuru

Gemini Circus shares a long history with Mysuru, having visited the city for several decades specifically during Dasara.

In the earlier days, circuses were synonymous with performing animals — tigers, elephants, lions, horses, bears, dogs and even birds — all trained to perform under the watchful eye of ringmasters.

However, after the Government of India imposed a ban on the use of animals, many circus companies were forced to shut down.

"The circus attracts children in large numbers. They come to see animals performing stunts. But with the ban on animals, it has become difficult to sustain. We now bring artistes from across the world — including Russia and Tanzania — along with performers from India to keep the magic alive," said Suresh Babu, Manager of Gemini Circus.

Suresh Babu, who has been with the company for many years, added that Mysuru remains one of the best places to camp. "We need at least three acres to set up — including the main arena, tents, canteens and rest rooms — plus another acre-and-a-half for parking. Only Mysuru provides us with this space. Mysureans have always welcomed us warmly, year after year," he said.

He further mentioned that all artistes at Gemini Circus are covered by insurance to ensure hassle-free medical support.

"The Gemini Circus, currently captivating audiences at the Horse Park Grounds near Karanji Lake, is a dazzling blend of nostalgia and thrill. With every act, it rekindles childhood wonder while electrifying spectators of all ages. Rain or shine, applause or silence – the show must go on..."

Stories under the tents

Anu

Anu, an artiste from West Bengal, shared that the management takes good care of its performers. "We perform several risky stunts. Though we are used to it, the company ensures we receive medical help whenever needed, along with financial and other support," she said.

While the circus continues to entertain audiences, it also sustains hundreds of families. People from distant States such as Jammu & Kashmir and Assam have joined circus troupes, building their lives and families around the Big tent.

Priyanka

Love stories too have blossomed under the tent — like that of Priyanka from Jammu & Kashmir and Daimun Khatun from Assam.

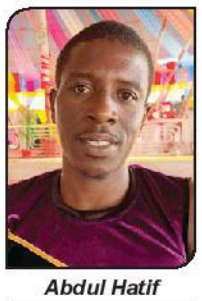
Daimun Khatun

Both have been in the circus for nearly two decades and have been married for six years. Priyanka performs ring acts, while Daimun is a weightlifter. "Circus has become our home," said Priyanka.

"The management looks after our needs and we get time to visit our native places during the off-season before returning when called back."

Across continents

This year, Gemini Circus has brought in artistes from Tanzania, including Abdul Hatif, an acrobat. Speaking to Star of Mysore, he explained that Tanzania has several circus and acrobatic schools where youngsters are trained from an early age.



Abdul Hatif

"I've been part of the circus for six years and have travelled the world. This is my fourth visit to Mysuru which is special" he says.

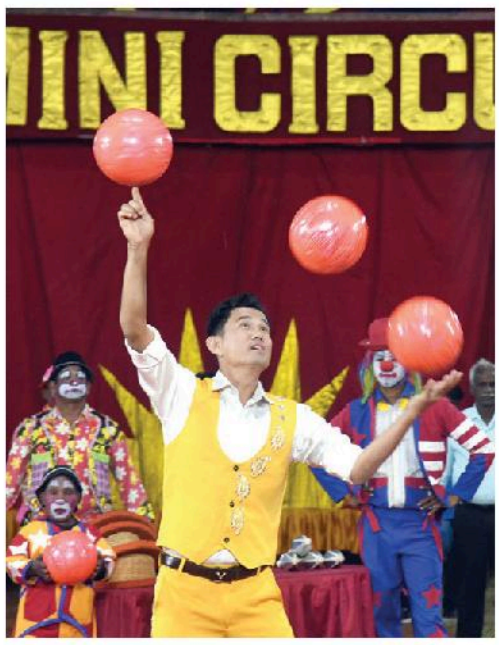
WHERE TO WATCH

Gemini Circus is currently performing at the Horse Park Grounds, behind Karanji Lake in Mysuru. Ticket prices are Rs. 150, Rs. 250, Rs. 300 and Rs. 450, available both at the venue and online. There are three shows daily — 1 pm, 4 pm and 7 pm, each lasting two hours. The circus, which began on Sept. 21, will run till Nov. 3.



ORIGIN OF GEMINI CIRCUS

Circus in India has a rich history spanning 146 years, beginning with Vishnupant Chatre, an equestrian and his wife, a trapeze artiste and animal trainer, who founded Chatre's Great Indian Circus on March 20, 1880.

Inspired by Chatre's success, several other companies followed, including Great Royal Circus, Great Rayman Circus, Amar Circus, Great Bombay Circus, Gemini Circus, Rajkamal Circus, Jumbo Circus and Rambo Circus, among others.

Among the most renowned is Gemini Circus, founded by Moorkoth Vengakandy Shankaran, popularly known as Gemini Shankaran or lovingly called 'Shankarettan'.

Shankaran acquired the Maharashtra-based Vijay Circus for Rs 6,000. He renamed it as Gemini, based on his zodiac sign. The troupe's maiden performance was held on Aug. 15, 1951, in Billimoria, Gujarat. Following Shankaran's demise in 2023, his sons Ajay Shankar and Ashok Shankar now managing the circus company.

THE LIGHTER SIDE

By Dr. R. Balasubramaniam

Eating out with friends

Ah, nostalgia. It is that magic masala that makes the past look better than it probably was. Yesterday's pav bhaji, eaten on a steel plate with questionable hygiene, somehow tastes better in memory than today's overpriced avocado toast in a cafe that charges extra for water.

Through its rose-tinted lens, the past looks like a Doordarshan Sunday movie — grainy, slow, but strangely comforting. Let us talk about the mythical age of "eating out with friends." Restaurants were just restaurants, not Instagram studios. The only influencer in the group was the one who convinced everyone to split the bill equally.

I still remember how it was in the mid-eighties. A group of us with little money used to gather at a modest family restaurant. Depending on our budget, it was Madhu Nivas, Dasaprakash or Udupi Bhavan. It could also be some generic "Darshini" that popped up on some street corner. The menu was familiar. Vegetable palav, Chow chow bath, butter naan, palak paneer and gulab jamuns for dessert. Exotic cuisine meant Chinese — well, "Indian Chinese," which was basically fried noodles, red chutney and enough ajinomoto to keep you thirsty till next week.

The hottest debate of the evening? Not about whether the chef has used Himalayan pink salt or sea salt. It was whether to order one masala papad for the table or be reckless and order two. Back then, we did not analyse food; we demolished it. Paneer butter masala looked like paneer butter masala. No filters, no garnish sprigs, no drizzle of anything. Just bright red gravy, a floating cube of butter amidst paneer and happiness.

Phones? Oh, they existed. Only in the STD phone booths where we stood in long lines. Parents in those days demanded regular updates. "Where are you? Who is with you? Why is it so noisy? Are you studying or wasting time again?" If boredom struck, the only "entertainment" was a movie in an actual old theatre. Social media was passing handwritten notes in class or exchanging diaries during summer holidays. Influencers? That was your uncle, who could influence your parents into letting you stay out past 9 pm.

The 'community' was real. We laughed out loud — not LOL'd. "Like" meant a genuine chuckle across the table, not a polite double tap. "Sharing" meant passing the naan basket, not oversharing with hashtags. And "commenting" meant someone telling you, "Boss, raita is on your shirt." The privacy we gave up was not to Mark Zuckerberg, but to that one friend who would later tell the whole class about how you spilled Coke on your jeans and looked like you had embarrassed yourself.

And the bill! Oh, the drama. Splitting a Rs. 300 bill among six people was a mathematics problem tougher than any IIT entrance exam. One guy would only have a Rs. 100 note. Another would claim he "hardly ate anything" except two rotis and some gravy. Meanwhile, the eternal freeloader would vanish to "make a call" just as the waiter arrived. No UPI, no "scan and pay." Just piles of coins, torn notes and an outraged cashier wondering if you were buying groceries instead of paying for a meal.

Fast-forward to today. Eating out is no longer just eating — it is a public performance. The first thing served is not water, but the collective instruction, "Arre, don't touch the food! Let me click first!" Every thali becomes a photoshoot set. Everyone jockeys for the best angle, as if the samosa were auditioning for a Filmfare cover. Someone will tilt the plate, someone else will adjust the lighting with their phone torch, while the poor dish sits there, slowly getting cold. By the time the photography ends, you do not want to eat it — you want to frame it.

And then there is privacy or the concept of it. Middle-class India guards its OTPs with the intensity of Z-plus security. Yet they willingly upload 4K videos of butter naan with geotag, filter and hashtags like #Foodie #Blessed #NaanStopFun. Friends who would never reveal their salary will casually broadcast to the world that they had "authentic Burmese Khow Suey" last night. We are fiercely protective of our data (at least believe so), yet we happily volunteer our entire dinner menu to strangers.

The economics of it all have also changed. In the 80s, eating out was a rare treat — birthday dinners, exam results (good ones), or that annual family outing to "treat ourselves." Today, the middle-class urban millennial eats out more in a week than their parents did in a year. Swiggy, Zomato and food courts in malls have normalised eating out to the point where dal-chawal at home feels like punishment. It is no longer about affordability; it is about lifestyle.

And yet — something is missing.

Because here is the truth. Back then, eating out was an event. You dressed up, you waited for it, you relished it. Today, it is just another Instagram story that vanishes in 24 hours. Back then, the memory lived in your stomach and in your laughter. Today, the memory lives in the cloud, measured by views and likes.

Yes, we have gained a lot. Wider choices, cooler restaurants, cuisines we cannot pronounce but happily pay for, and the ability to split bills with one tap instead of mental arithmetic. We have gained convenience, variety and an endless archive of digital proof that we have "a life."

But in the process, we have lost the magic of simplicity. The thrill of saving up for that one meal. The joy of sharing food without worrying if it looked photogenic. The warmth of conversations uninterrupted by notifications. And the greatest loss of all — of being fully there.

So here is to the good old days, when the scariest thing about eating out was food poisoning from roadside gobi manchurian. And here is to today, when the scarier thing is an unflattering tag on social media. Maybe the paneer tikka was better back then — or maybe it is just that we actually ate it hot, together, without waiting for the likes to come in.

EPS faculty win My Mysuru Ideathon for 'Ahara Dhaara' innovation

Mysuru, Oct. 15 - M.B. Mahesh and L. Sudhakar, faculty members from Excel Public School (EPS) have won first prize at My Mysuru Ideathon: Ideas for Future for their innovative project "Ahara Dhaara," a smart, automated ration distribution system designed to reform Mysuru's Public Distribution System (PDS).

The Ideathon, part of the My Mysuru Vision 2030 initiative led by MP Yaduveer Krishnadatta Chamaraja Wadiyar, seeks to crowdsource citizen-led solutions for building a smarter, sustainable, and inclusive Mysuru. The 2025 edition drew over 2,500 entries, shortlisted to 340, then 100 finalists, culminating in a Grand Finale on Sept. 20, where top 10 teams presented before an eminent jury chaired by Yaduveer Wadiyar.

Representing Team Rationease, the Excel Public School duo presented their project "Ahara Dhaara" under Smart Infrastructure and Mobility category. The idea proposes a fully automated ration distribution kiosk that uses RFID cards, biometric verification and OTP-based access to enable secure, 24x7 collection of rations, reducing corruption, improving accessibility and restoring dignity to beneficiaries.

MP Yaduveer Wadiyar presenting Winner's Trophy and a cash prize of Rs. 25,000 to Excel Public School faculty for their project 'Ahara Dhaara.'

"Winning My Mysuru Ideathon has been an incredibly rewarding experience not just as recognition, but as validation that technology can truly simplify lives when it's built with empathy," said Mahesh and Sudhakar adding "Ahara Dhaara was born out of everyday challenges we saw around us, and this win inspires us to take it further from concept to a working model that can bring pride and dignity to how citizens access essential services."

The team received the Winner's Trophy and Rs.25,000 cash prize from Yaduveer.

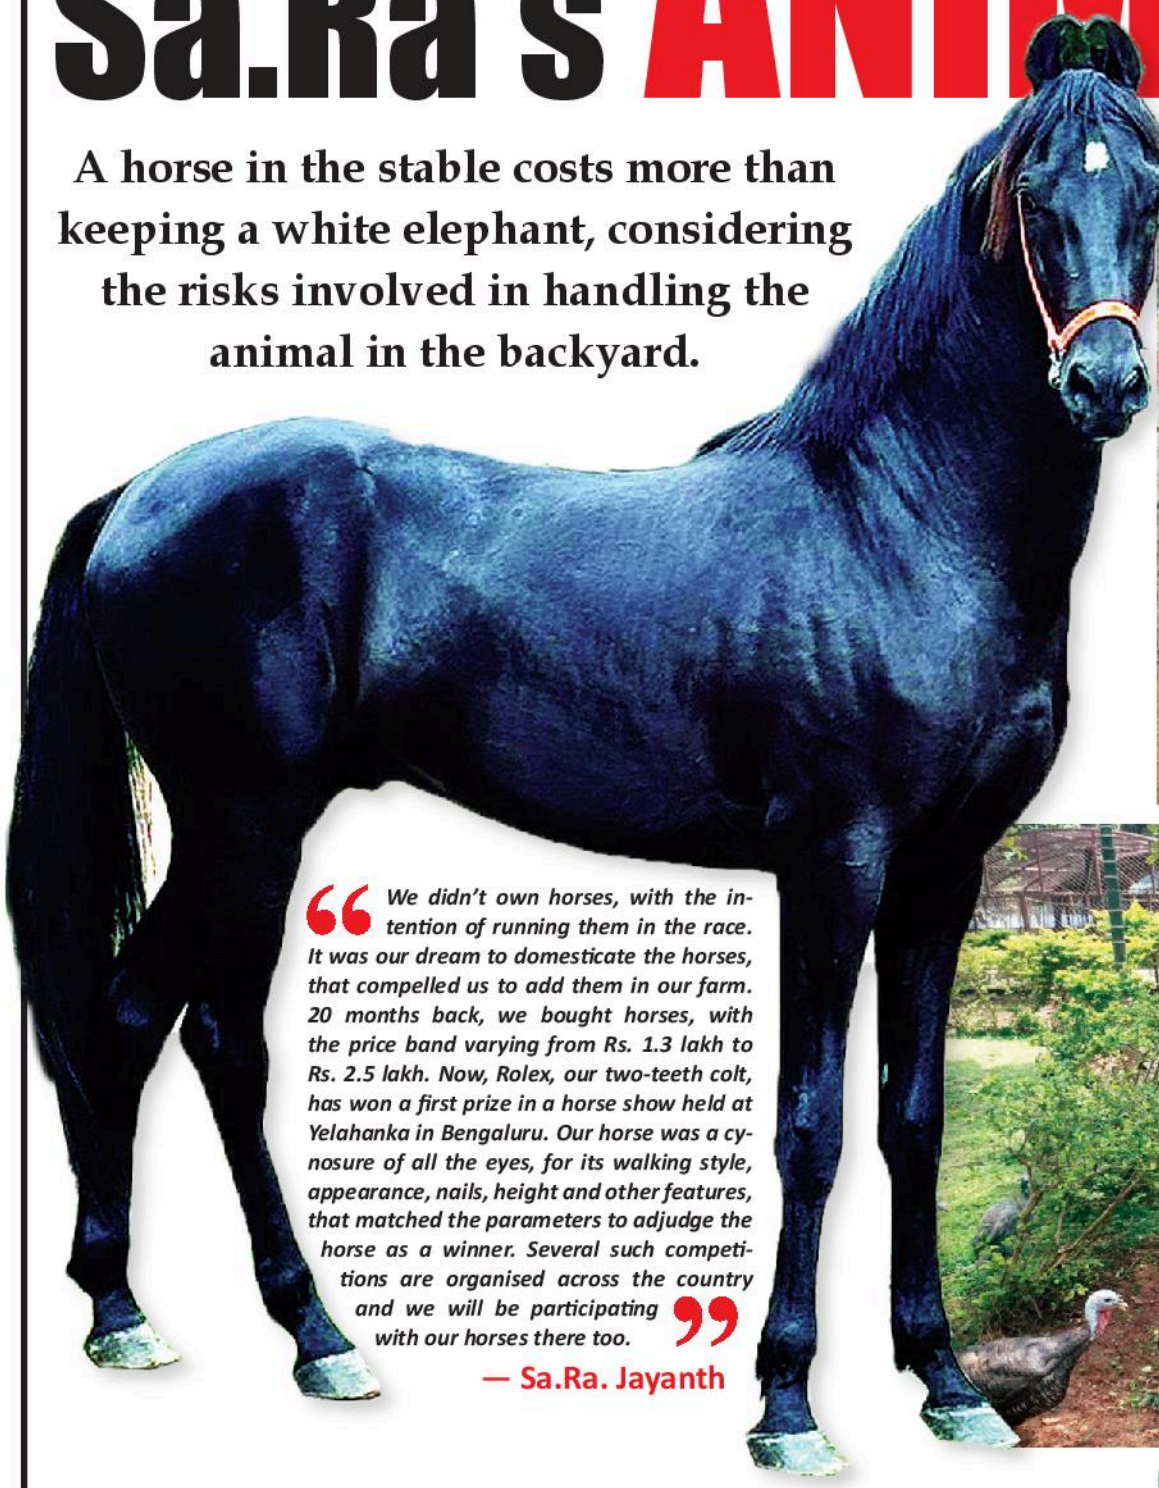
Organisers and civic representatives have expressed interest in supporting a pilot implementation of Ahara Dhaara, in line with Vision 2030's goal of integrating community-driven ideas into actionable city projects.

"Ahara Dhaara reflects the culture of innovation we nurture at Excel Public School where creativity, technology, and social responsibility converge to address real-world challenges," said K.G. Mathew, Principal, Excel Public School.

D. Sudhanva, Chairman and MD of Excel Group, said, "Ahara Dhaara truly reflects the spirit of innovation and social impact that defines Excel Public School's ethos. We are proud of our faculty."

Sa.Ra's ANIMAL Farm

A horse in the stable costs more than keeping a white elephant, considering the risks involved in handling the animal in the backyard.



"We didn't own horses, with the intention of running them in the race. It was our dream to domesticate the horses, that compelled us to add them in our farm. 20 months back, we bought horses, with the price band varying from Rs. 1.3 lakh to Rs. 2.5 lakh. Now, Rolex, our two-teeth colt, has won a first prize in a horse show held at Yelahanka in Bengaluru. Our horse was a cynosure of all the eyes, for its walking style, appearance, nails, height and other features, that matched the parameters to adjudge the horse as a winner. Several such competitions are organised across the country and we will be participating with our horses there too."

— Sa.Ra. Jayanth

For Sa. Ra. Jayanth, son of Sa. Ra. Mahesh, former Minister and JD(S) State Working President, it seems to be in his blood, given his father's love for animals. It is evident with Sa. Ra. Farm at Dattagalli in the outskirts of the city, that resembles a mini zoo, what with a collection of exotic birds, chickens, cows, Emu Ostrich, Turkey fowl, Guinea Fowl, sheep, dog, goat, tortoise etc., in the livestock. The number of cows alone run up to 60, with 20 Jersey cows, 12 Gir, seven Punganur, one Murrah buffalo, Hallikar, Jallikattu bull and Malnad Gidda (dwarf). Among dogs, the breeds include- Pitbull-2, Cane Corso-1, Rottweiler- 2, Siberian Huskey- 1, Belgian Malinois, Greyhound and 15 stray dogs rescued from the city streets.

ADDITION OF HORSES

The latest edition at the farm being four horses, a mix of Marwari and Kathewari breeds of horses. The prized moment is, Rolex, the 28-month-old colt, belonging to Marwari breed, finishing first in the category of 'Two Teeth Colt' at The Royalty Horse Show, held at Yelahanka in Bengaluru recently. As said earlier, Jayanth, who had developed the passion for animals ditto like his father, had a long unfulfilled desire of having a horse in his collection of pets. His search for a perfect breed, began with an enquiry among his friends since college days, hailing from Rajasthan, where horses were an integral part of the households, since over 60 years.

GUJARAT, RAJASTHAN

Finally, Jayanth, along with his friends, travelled across Gujarat and Rajasthan, in search for a horse with a better pedigree. However, his search didn't yield any results. He returned to Mysuru, only to start again, driven by a strong will to find a horse. The lady luck smiled on him, as he found a colt, after 10 days of intense search.

After going through the pedigree of horses, he purchased not one, but a total of four horses- two each belonging to Marwari and Kathewari breeds. The Marwari horses are named- Rolex and Maximus, brought from Pushkar and Jodhpur respectively in Rajasthan and Kathewari breeds are named- SaRa and Arjuna, from Pushkar and Jaipur respectively.

DIET

The horse diet includes- 10 litres of milk from desi cow, ¼ kg each of cashew and badam, eggs of Nati Koli, apple, carrot, jaggery, mustard seeds oil, 30 litres of bottled water, oats, cheese, horsegram, moongdal, pearl millet, wheat, husks of grains, grass, fenugreek and the list goes on. The horses are fed with these many mixes of food three times a day. The horses are susceptible to catch a physical ailment called- Colic and to avoid that, they are fed with Pink Salt, which makes them naturally consume more water.

To acclimatise horses with the competitions, they are made to practice canter and trotting walks for 25 minutes daily.

S.R. Mahesh hands over financial aid to minor rape victim's kin

S.R. Jayanth handing over Rs. 1 lakh cheque to Dalit activist Ningaraj Malladi at Sa.Ra. Farm in city as his father S.R. Mahesh and others look on.

Mysuru, Oct. 15 (BLU&BS)- In a novel gesture, former Minister and JD(S) State Working President S.R. Mahesh gave Rs. 1 lakh cash award won by his horse at a competition to the family of a minor girl from Kalaburagi, who was allegedly raped and murdered near Dasara Exhibition Grounds in city recently.

Malladi, who received the cheque on behalf of the victim's family, said that the State Government should provide a compensation of Rs. 10 lakh to the next of kin of sexual assault victim. In addition to this, suitable arrangements should be made for the nomads, who come to city during Dasara from next year, to accommodate them in a safer place.

The horse named Rolex, a 28-month-old colt, had won the cash award for securing first place in the category of 'Two Teeth Colt' at The Royalty Horse Show, considered as Asia's biggest, organised at Yelahanka in Bengaluru recently.

Writers pay tribute to Dr. Bhyrappa

Mysuru, Oct. 15 (SPN&BS)- Rich tributes were paid to Padma Bhushan novelist Dr. S.L. Bhyrappa, who passed away recently, at the auditorium of Kannada Sahitya Parishat, Mysuru district unit, at Vijayanagar in city yesterday.

Mysuru district unit of the Parishat had organised the condolence programme in association with Karnataka Lekhakiyara Sangha, Vijayanagar Kshemabhivrudhi Sangha and Mysuru Ladies Association, during which, floral tributes were offered to the portrait of Dr. Bhyrappa, in the august presence of writers Dr. C.P. Krishnakumar (CPK) and Dr. Pradhan Gurudatta.

In his address, CPK described Dr. Bhyrappa as a writer who has produced over 25 best novels, which are all-time relevant. It won't be wrong to laud Bhyrappa as a finest novelist for his popular novels. In his writings, Dr. Bhyrappa maintained a balance between both popularity and thoughts. Beginning with his maiden novel 'Dharmashree' and to his latest work, all of Dr. Bhyrappa's novels were popular among the readers. "Several literary critics had dubbed Bhyrappa, as a misogynist, but in reality, women were more among his readers," added CPK.

Dr. Pradhan Gurudatta said, the plot of Dr. Bhyrappa's novels stemmed from extensive research, as the latter laid more emphasis on field study. Hence, each of his novels were unusually characteristic, namely Bheemakaya, Parva, Matadhana, Tabbali Neenade Magane and Nayi Neralu.

Poetess Dr. Latha Rajashekar said that Dr. Bhyrappa had created a sensation in literature and was adored by readers irrespective of their stature.

Dr. Padma Shekar, former Vice-Chancellor of Karnataka State Sanskrit University, called the novel 'Tabbali Neenade Magane,' written by Dr. Bhyrappa as her favourite.

Kannada Sahitya Parisha Mysuru President Maddikere Gopal, social activist Raghuram Vajpayee, farmer leader Prof. Basavaraj, former Kannada Sahitya Parisha Mysuru President M. Chandrashekar, former Mysore Paints and Varnish Limited (MPVL) Chairperson Mallige Veeresh and others were present.

Speaking to them, Yaduveer said, he could not visit the family members of Dr. Bhyrappa and express his condolences as he was busily engaged in Dasara and other religious rituals.

He noted that he has submitted a memorandum to the State Government seeking announcement of posthumous 'Karnataka Ratna' award to Dr. Bhyrappa, whose works resulted in global recognition to the State, especially Mysuru region.

"I have written to Chief Minister Siddaramaiah demanding naming of City Central Library after Dr. Bhyrappa. I have also urged to construct a Memorial in the Library premises that reflects the life and literary works of Dr. Bhyrappa," the MP said.

Funds crunch and JD(S) factor derailed Greater Mysuru plan?

Mysuru, Oct. 15 (RK&BCT)- Senior Congress leaders have reportedly advised Chief Minister Siddaramaiah against moving forward with the proposed Greater Mysuru City Corporation plan, citing the city's existing civic challenges and the heavy financial burden that expansion would impose.

Despite notable progress in tax collection, the Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) continues to face a severe cash crunch, struggling even to clear pending bills for ongoing development works.

This financial strain has raised doubts about the feasibility of extending the city's limits at a time when it is already grappling with infrastructure bottlenecks and service delivery issues.

Resources stretched

Had the proposal been implemented, several newly developed layouts beyond the current limits would have come under the MCC's jurisdiction. Extending basic amenities such as water supply, roads, sanitation, and waste management to these areas would have required thousands of crores of rupees in additional expenditure.

Moreover, the Corporation would have needed to recruit more staff and civic workers to handle the expanded administrative and service responsibilities.

Leaders have also pointed out that once new areas are incorporated, residents typically begin approaching the MCC with complaints and requests for civic amenities — demands the Corporation may struggle to meet without adequate financial support. In view of these constraints, several Congress leaders have reportedly urged the CM to defer or drop the expansion proposal altogether.

Adding to the political complexity, analysts note that the JD(S) holds considerable influence in the Chamundeshwari Constituency, one of the regions that would have been absorbed into the expanded city limits — a factor that may also have contributed to the Government's decision to shelve the plan.

Shelving of Greater Mysuru draws flak from leaders

The move to shelve Greater Mysuru City Corporation is an unfortunate development for Mysuru. Chief Minister Siddaramaiah remembers his hometown, Mysuru, only during elections. Normally, a Chief Minister ensures remarkable development in his home district — we have seen many CMs doing it. Unfortunately, Siddaramaiah seems uninterested in this. Sadly, even the Mysuru City Corporation elections have not been conducted as per mandate, and there are no elected representatives. As a result, all the funds sanctioned under the 15th Finance Commission are being returned. It is a huge setback, and the Mysuru City Corporation has no money to take up any development works. This is a sad state for Mysuru.

—Yaduveer Krishnadatta Chamaraja Wadiyar, Mysuru-Kodagu MP

The State Government has not yet conducted elections to the Mysuru City Corporation, and I have no idea why CM Siddaramaiah is showing no interest in Mysuru's development. Unless elections are held, there is no possibility of funding sanction, either from the Centre or the State. Sadly, the CM has no vision for his home district.

—T.S. Srivatsa, Krishnaraja (KR) MLA

The Greater Mysuru City Corporation would have brought under its purview all residential areas currently under Town Panchayats on the outskirts of Mysuru. The Government had promised to implement it within six months and hold elections to the new body within a year. At present, the Mysuru City Corporation provides basic amenities to several areas beyond the Outer Ring Road, even though they are not officially within its limits. CM Siddaramaiah will take a call on Greater Mysuru, and I have faith in him, as he knows the condition of these areas. Two meetings have already been held with the CM involving the Mysuru Development Authority, City Municipal Councils and Gram Panchayats. The Greater Mysuru plan will benefit a large section of the population.

—G.T. Devegowda, Chamundeshwari MLA

The proposal for Greater Mysuru was first mooted by BJP and in 2020, an action plan was prepared to expand the 65-Ward Mysuru City Corporation. Now is the ideal time for Greater Mysuru, as the city is growing by leaps and bounds. The plan was envisioned keeping in mind Mysuru's growth over the next 20 years, alongside major projects like Namma Mysuru Metro and the Peripheral Ring Road. Urban Development Minister Byrathi Suresh has, however, placed several roadblocks in the way of this plan. He even summoned Mysuru officers to Bengaluru and explicitly instructed them not to go ahead with the Greater Mysuru proposal. This is an unfortunate development. It was an ambitious project and the very Government that should be developing cities has poured cold water on it, that too in CM Siddaramaiah's home district.

Deadline for Ph.D thesis

Registrar (Evaluation) Prof. N. Nagaraja highlighted that 70 Research Scholars have failed to submit their Ph.D theses even after exceeding the minimum five-year period, extendable up to seven years and have remained inaccessible.

"Following the prolonged delays, a deadline of Dec. 31, 2025, has been set for submission. A total of 1,164 Research Scholars are pursuing their Ph.D and are receiving a stipend ranging from Rs. 28,000 to Rs. 52,000 per month, depending on the research topic and subject. Scholars who fail to submit their thesis by the deadline will face action, as their thesis will no longer be considered," warned Prof. Nagaraja.

The meeting emphasised that Guides of Research Scholars must submit candidate progress reports every six months. It was noted that if this process is not enforced, Scholars may continue to prolong thesis submission.

Member Dr. Rakesh suggested that norms may be drafted to restrain Guides from delaying submission of progress reports.

Bannimantap bus terminal

The new bus terminal is being constructed, designed in the architectural style of the Mysore Palace. Given Mysuru's reputation as a hub of heritage buildings, the new terminal will feature traditional design elements. At the same time, it will be equipped with modern amenities.

The terminal will accommodate 75 bus bays and offer parking space for 300 cars and 4,000 two-wheelers. It will include advanced facilities such as elevators using modern technology, high-quality restrooms, ticket counters, a baby feeding room, and separate waiting rooms for men and women.

Speaking to Star of Mysore, KSRTC Mysuru Urban Division Divisional Controller B. Srinivas said that the new bus stand will primarily handle long-distance and inter-State services. Meanwhile, the existing Sub-Urban Bus Stand on B.N. Road will continue to operate short-distance and mofussil services.

"The new facility will significantly de-congest the current bus stand, ensuring smooth entry and exit of buses and easy movement for passengers," Srinivas said.

He explained that the construction will be executed in multiple phases. "In the first phase, Depot-2 inside the Bannimantap premises — previously used for the servicing and repair of Volvo buses — has been demolished, with its operations relocated to an alternative site within the same premises.

In the second phase, Depot-1, which largely remained underutilised, will also be demolished to create additional space for the new structure," he added.

The entire project is expected to be completed within two years, he said.

During Dasara festivities, the front-side access will be closed to facilitate the smooth movement of Jumboo Savari along the Raja Marga that runs in front of the depot, Srinivas added.

Greater Mysuru proposal

Feasibility study

Following Government directives, the Mysuru District Administration carried out a feasibility study and submitted a detailed report recommending the merger of adjoining Urban and Rural Local Bodies into an expanded Municipal Corporation. A formal proposal was then sent to the Government by Deputy Commissioner (DC) G. Lakshmikanth Reddy, underscoring the need to extend the MCC's jurisdiction.

According to the report, Mysuru's population would have risen from 13.30 lakh to 16.80 lakh with the inclusion of the surrounding Local Bodies. Newly developed layouts in the Chamundeshwari Constituency, currently outside city limits, would also have been brought under the proposed Greater Mysuru City Corporation's jurisdiction.

Major driver of growth

The Chamundeshwari Constituency alone comprises nearly 900 MUDA-developed and MUDA-approved layouts that have been transferred to Local Bodies. Presently, the responsibility of maintaining and developing these areas lies with the Town Panchayats, which lack the financial strength to execute major developmental works.

Recognising these challenges, Chamundeshwari MLA G.T. Devegowda had voiced strong support for the Greater Mysuru initiative, viewing it as a major driver of regional growth.

However, resistance reportedly came from several Congress leaders and sitting MCC members, who opposed the merger for political and administrative reasons. Their objections, coupled with the Finance Department's caution, ultimately led to the proposal being shelved.

With Government's withdrawal order, the vision of a unified and expansive Greater Mysuru remains unrealised for now.

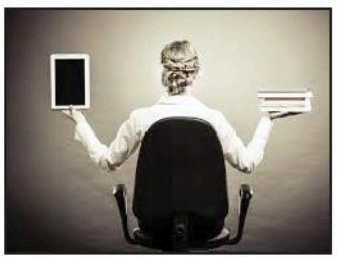
WORD OF THE DAY

Obviate

Pronunciation: AHB-vee-ayt (verb).



Meaning: To obviate something (usually a need for something, or a necessity) is to anticipate and prevent it. A formal word, obviate can also mean "to make an action unnecessary."

Origin: It's most often needs that get obviated. And a need that's obviated is a need that's been anticipated and prevented. That sentence may obviate your need to consult the definition again, for example. Obviate comes ultimately from the Latin adjective obviam, meaning "in the way," and obviating does often involve figuratively putting something in the way, as when an explanatory sentence placed just so blocks a need to consult a definition. (Obviam is also an ancestor of our adjective obvious.) Obviate has a number of synonyms in English, including prevent, preclude, and avert, which all can mean "to hinder or stop something." Preclude often implies that a degree of chance was involved in stopping an event, while avert always implies that a bad situation has been anticipated and prevented or deflected by the application of immediate and effective means. Obviate generally suggests the use of intelligence or forethought to ward off trouble.

Example: "In 1987, a new kind of computer workstation debuted from Sun Microsystems. These workstations, as well as increasingly powerful desktop computers from IBM and Apple, obviated the need for specialized LISP machines. Within a year, the market for LISP machines evaporated." — Jeremy Kahn, Fortune, 3 Sept. 2025.

THE ODD WORD

Obstreperous

Noisy; unruly.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

On the ball

Meaning: The phrase 'On the ball' is a used to say when someone understands the situation very well.

Origin: The phrase "On the ball" originated in the 19th century from ball sports, likely baseball, as a shortened version of the advice "keep your eye on the ball," meaning to pay close attention to the game. It later evolved in the early 1900s to describe someone alert, competent and quick to react in any situation, not just in sports.

Example: "Dana is totally on the ball since she started taking her vitamin supplements every day."

CRYPTOQUIP

The Cryptoquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.
